GAF

Your pathway to a lucrative, long-term career

Today's roofing industry is responsive, innovative, and widely respected, instituting ever-higher standards across the board and enabling hard-working, dedicated individuals to build well-paying and extremely rewarding careers. Did you know: the average starting wage for a roofer in the U.S. is $39,970/year, and roofing jobs are expected to increase 12% by 2028 — faster than the average for all occupations!*

Now, GAF — the leading U.S. roofing manufacturer — can help your associates get there through a unique education and career training program. GAF Roofing Academy offers a tremendous opportunity to gain entry to this lucrative and stable profession. This professional program combines a real-world introduction to residential and commercial roofing with coursework, practical hands-on training, and field visits — all designed to give your associates the skills necessary to become sought-after candidates. Program graduates also gain access to an exclusive GAF job board, where our national network of GAF factory-certified contractors can post career opportunities.

If you're looking to give your associates a head start in the marketplace and the opportunity to learn a valuable trade with a solid earnings potential, get there with GAF Roofing Academy.
